

Student Museum Tour is Going Virtual!

Big Blue welcomes you virtually to the museum

We can't make ice cream virtually, but we can welcome students to the ECCHS museum via a virtual tour!

The good news is, there are no scheduling conflicts so all classes can visit the virtual tour at any time of their choosing.

The bad news is that it has taken us quite a bit longer than anticipated to put together this project. But videotaping has been completed, editing is taking shape, and the final touches of pictures and music are being added.

When finished, the video tour will be available for teachers to incorporate into their lesson planning for May. Video can be viewed in segments to allow for more interaction with students and teacher flexibility. A Teacher's Guide will be available to provide further background and suggested questions. We hope to also have a Student Booklet available for use if desired for students to have a more interactive experience.

Mary Black, ECCHS Education Coordinator, has contacted 3rd grade teachers in Brentwood, Byron, Knightsen, and Oakley School Districts. At this time, the virtual tour is available only to classes within these district boundaries, as were the original on-site tours.

For further information, please contact Mary Black

